TUESDAY, SEPT 15, 2020 | 4:00PM - 5:00PM (MST)
Drawing on Equity-Minded, Culturally Relevant Leadership to Center the Needs of Graduate Students in the Age of COVID-19 | Graduate Student Weekly Chat

Featuring: Judy Marquez Kiyama, PhD, AVP, Faculty Development; Professor, Center for the Study of Higher Education, Department of Educational Policy Studies and Practice. We seek a deeper understanding of the problems facing graduate students, a willingness to listen and re-calibrate, and a desire to build student, faculty, and administrator relationships based on empathy, trust, and respect.

Zoom Link: https://arizona.zoom.us/j/531795194

WEDNESDAY, SEPT 16, 2020 | 4:00PM - 5:00PM (MST)
Nationally Competitive Scholarships: Equity-Centered Practices for Supporting Diverse Students | Panel

The need to advance more equitable practices across all facets of the university is an essential commitment as an HSI, including nationally competitive scholarships. This panel discussion will explore equity-centered practices for supporting diverse students in applying for these highly competitive awards, including hearing from those who manage these programs, faculty who serve as mentors, and student voices from those who have applied. RSVP: https://bit.ly/2Z1mCp1

THURSDAY, SEPT 17, 2020 | 11:00AM - 12:30PM (MST)
HSIs: Examining the Graduate Education Ecosystem for Latinx Students | Panel

Featuring: Dr. JoAnn Canales, the Council of Graduate Schools’ Scholar-in-Residence Emerita, discussing her recent release of an information brief and interactive toolkit focused on closing the gap in graduate degree attainment for Latinx students. Panelists include: Vanessa Perry, Assistant Professor of Practice, Disability and Psychoeducational Studies, Nura Dualeh, Director, Undergraduate Research and Graduate Preparation Programs, and UA graduate student Ruben Zecena. RSVP: https://bit.ly/3i0y2ko

#UAHSIWEEK2020

More Info: PriscillaAyala@arizona.edu