

Dear Graduate Students,

Congratulations to all of you who are graduating!

If you no longer need information on graduate funding and would like to unsubscribe from this (or any other UA email list), send an email to list@list.arizona.edu. Include "unsubscribe gradfunding John Doe" in the subject line (replacing, obviously, your name for John Doe). Leave the message body blank and delete any automatic signature. If this does not work, send me an email and I will remove you.

For those of you who will continue with your graduate studies. Please see below for funding opportunities.

Summer 2017 Fellowship Application Support Program

The OFCE with the UA Honor's College is pleased to announce the Summer 2017 Fellowship Application Support Program. We provide support to students applying for fellowships to support graduate level work. We also provide support to students applying for dissertation research or dissertation write-up funding.

Serve as a GPSC Travel Grant Judge

One of the best ways to learn to write strong grant applications is to evaluate them. Serving as a Travel Grant Judge is a small commitment with a big benefit. The process will only take 1.5 to 2 hours but will give you an insider's perspective on an evaluation process similar to major granting agencies like NSF/NIH/NEH. If you would like to be a judge, please email gpscfunding@email.arizona.edu as soon as possible.

General Funding Opportunities

American Institute of Indian Studies – Dissertation Research Fellowships and Performing/Creative Arts Fellowships

For more than 50 years, the American Institute of Indian Studies has provided funding to pre- and post-doctoral scholars and artists in pursuit of knowledge about India.

Junior Research Fellowships are available to doctoral candidates at U.S. universities in all fields of study. These grants are specifically designed to enable doctoral candidates to pursue their dissertation research in India. Junior Research Fellows establish formal affiliation with Indian universities and Indian research supervisors. Awards are available for up to 11 months. Senior Performing and Creative Arts Fellowships are available to accomplished practitioners of the performing arts of India and creative artists who demonstrate that study in India would enhance their skills, develop their capabilities to teach or perform in the U.S., enhance American involvement with India's artistic traditions or strengthen their links with peers in India.

National Science Foundation (NSF) Graduate Research Fellowship Program (GRFP)

The purpose of the NSF GRFP is to help ensure the vitality and diversity of the scientific and engineering workforce in the United States. The program is a wonderful source of funding for graduate students – providing awardees with $34,000 annually for three years, as well as additional benefits. NSF Fellows at the University of Arizona receive full tuition, mandatory fees, student health insurance for the Fellow, and a $500 travel grant during tenured years

Students at the University of Arizona are eligible to receive application support for this fellowship. Registrants will receive: email updates with advice and links; access to examples of successful applications; feedback on application essays (provided the early internal deadline is met); invitations to information sessions on the fellowship and to workshops on the application process. Craft Research Fund Grants

The mission of the Craft Research Fund Graduate Research Grants is to encourage, expand, and support graduate research about craft in the United States.

- Project Grants: Grants up to $15,000 for research, writing, support documentation, images or rights to use images or text, as part of the research yet to be completed.
- Exhibition Research Grants: Grants up to $15,000 will be awarded to support exhibition research relating to the goals of the Craft Research Fund.
- Graduate Research Grants: Grants of up to $10,000 support research related to a Master's thesis or dissertation relating to U.S. studio craft by students enrolled in graduate programs in any accredited college or university.
- Travel Grants: $500 travel grants are awarded to individuals invited to read papers relating to U.S. studio craft at any scholarly conference.

The fund aims to: support innovative research on artistic and critical issues in craft theory and history; explore the inter-relationship among craft, art, design and contemporary culture; foster new cross-disciplinary approaches to scholarship in the craft field in the United States; and advance investigation of neglected questions in craft history and criticism in the United States. Citizenship: U.S. citizens, in the process of applying for citizenship or have a U.S. Social Security number.

Gerda Henkel Stiftung Grants in Historical Humanities

Support is primarily provided for the historical humanities, in particular to support research projects in the following fields: Archaeology, Art History, Historical Islamic Studies, History, History of Law, History of Science, Prehistory and Early History. Since 2008 the Foundation has also increasingly addressed issues of great relevance to contemporary life and the future, above all as part of its special “Islam, the Modern Nation State and Transnational Movements” and “Security, Society and the State” programs. As part of the Lisa Maskell Fellowships, since 2014 the Foundation has been supporting young scholars in the humanities in both Africa and Southeast Asia. Starting in 2015, the Foundation has with its “Patrimonies” funding initiative focused more strongly on the preservation of cultural heritage, specifically in regions experiencing crisis.

National Science Foundation (NSF) Doctoral Dissertation Research Improvement Grants in Archaeology and Archaeometry

The Directorate for Social, Behavioral and Economic Sciences (SBE) Division of Behavioral and Cognitive Sciences (BCS) accepts proposals for Doctoral Dissertation Research Improvement Grants up to a maximum of $20,000 in direct costs (plus added indirect costs) to meet expenses associated with doctoral dissertation research. Items normally requested include per diem for time spent away from the home institution, travel funds, supplies and equipment, costs associated with field research and analysis fees. Salary for research at one's home institution is not permitted. Students doing international research having a formal affiliation with a foreign institution may be eligible for additional funding. The award amount is unspecified for the other proposal areas. The DDRI competition provides funds to permit graduate students enrolled in US universities to conduct dissertation research. The student need not be a US citizen or national. While the student writes the proposal and conducts/supervises the research, the dissertation advisor serves as the Principal Investigator and the student is listed as the co-PI. Both field and non-field projects are funded.

Richard III Foundation Scholarship for Medieval Studies

For over 10 years the Richard III Foundation Scholarship for Medieval Studies has offered an annual grant to graduate students who are in their doctoral years. Scholarship is awarded to a student registered for a higher degree whose work is based on the Yorkist period with their work relevant to the life and reign of King Richard III. (Students who are in receipt of awards from the AHRC and the Medieval Academy of America are not eligible.) The Scholarship is intended to help students meet the costs of research and/or living expenses. The successful applicant will be able to provide evidence of both academic excellence and financial need. Applications will be considered from previous recipients, although the Scholarship cannot be held for more than two years continuously.

Richard M. Hunt Fellowships for the Study of German History, Politics, Society, and Culture

The fellowship was launched in 2003 to enable promising American academics to probe issues of both historical and contemporary significance. Fellows are required to develop research itineraries in consultation with the American Council on Germany. The selection committee for the Dr. Richard M. Hunt Fellowship will evaluate applications based on the following criteria: the contribution the project will make to a better understanding of German history (and more specifically, the political, social, and cultural components); the feasibility of the proposed project; the training of the applicant; and the scholarly potential of the applicant.

The Strong – Fellowships for the Study of Play and Playthings

To encourage and support scholarship, The Strong® invites researchers to use its wealth of resources on the history of play and playthings. The Strong awards research fellowships three times each year. Eligible research projects must benefit from access to collections held by The Strong, including publications and other materials in the Brian Sutton-Smith Library and Archives of Play®; artifacts from the collections of the National Museum of Play; and artifacts and related resources from the collections of the International Center for the History of Electronic Games (ICHEG). Special consideration will be given to projects that offer fresh approaches for utilizing resources and that supplement, expand, or challenge prior play studies.

Ucross Foundation for Spring Artist Residencies

Founded in 1981, the Ucross Foundation provides uninterrupted time, work space, and living accommodations to competitively selected visual artists, writers, and composers. Nearly thirteen hundred individuals from every state in the U.S. as well as from Germany, France, Scotland, England, Poland, Egypt, the Netherlands, Canada, and Thailand, have spent time at Ucross since it first opened its doors in Sheridan, Wyoming. Currently, the foundation is accepting applications for its Spring Residency program, which runs from late-February to mid-June. Residencies vary from two to six weeks. At any one time, there are up to nine individuals in residence, representing a mix of visual artists, writers, and composers. In most cases, studios are separate from living quarters. Lunch and dinners are prepared Monday to Friday by a professional chef with ample provisions on hand for breakfasts and weekends. In addition, there is cell phone service on the property and several wireless Internet connection sites are available for the use of residents. Residents are responsible for providing their own working materials and for their travel to Wyoming. There is no charge for a residency. Artists, writers, and composers from around the United States and the world, in any stage of their professional career, are invited to apply to work on an individual or collaborative project.

American Society for Information Science and Technology (ASIS&T) Thomson Reuters Doctoral Dissertation Proposal Scholarship in Information Science

The scholarship shall consist of an award of $1,500 (donated by the Institute for Scientific Information). Additionally, Thomson Reuters shall contribute $500 towards travel or other expenses to the grant recipient, contingent upon the recipient's attending the ASIS&T annual meeting, and $250 to ASIS&T Headquarters towards administrative fees. The purpose of this scholarship is to foster research in information science by encouraging and assisting doctoral students in the field with their dissertation research. Because of the limits proposed by timing considerations, awards may be made for research underway, e.g., a student who begins research in the fall may apply for support for expenses incurred from the fall until the time the award is made.

J. O. Naclér Memorial Foundation Fellowship in Technology and Economics

J O Naclér was the president of Perstorp AB for 15 years, until 1970. He was then the chairman of the Board until his death in 1974. One of J O Naclér's great interest was education. He also wanted everyone to have the opportunity to pursue further education regardless of the educational level previously attained. In commemoration of him, the Board of Perstorp AB in 1974 established a fund, the Naclér Memorial Foundation. Scholarships are granted for educational purposes or research. To qualify as an applicant, the following prerequisites must be fulfilled: The education/research should lie within the areas of technology or economics and be related to the activities of the Perstorp Group. The costs of the education/research exceed the normal cost frame and cannot be covered by a national financial aid program for education (scholarships, loans)

Scientific Committee on Antarctic Research Fellowship

The Scientific Committee on Antarctic Research (SCAR) is a body of the International Council for Science (ICSU) and is the leading independent organization for facilitating and coordinating Antarctic research, and for identifying issues emerging from greater scientific understanding of the region that should be brought to the attention of policy makers. Its major objective is to initiate, develop, and co-ordinate high quality international scientific research in the Antarctic and Southern Ocean region, and on the role of the Antarctic region in the Earth system. It works closely with other organizations with a polar interest. The SCAR Fellowship Programme is designed to encourage the active involvement of early career scientists and engineers in Antarctic scientific research, and to build new connections and further strengthen international capacity and cooperation in Antarctic research.
